

“I greatly enjoy connecting with patients and building a trusting relationship with them. I want every interaction to be impactful.”

About Michael Georges, MD

Since Dr. Michael Georges was little, he always had an interest in helping others. He volunteered countless hours helping people through tough times and special medical needs. As a physician, he loves supporting the senior population through a range of medical concerns and chronic conditions, with an easygoing demeanor and good sense of humor.

“I greatly enjoy connecting with patients and building a trusting relationship with them,” Dr. Georges says. “I want every interaction to be impactful.”

When not providing care, researching or serving on committees, Dr. Georges has an active personal life. He likes to spend time with his family, hike, swim, play basketball, read and travel to different cultures.
