About Sachil Shah, MD

Dr. Sachil Shah developed a passion for healthcare as a teenager, witnessing a family physician build relationships with patients, which led to better care. As a cardiologist with a holistic approach, Dr. Shah strives to do the same. “I spend time getting to know my patients— their beliefs, desires and concerns—and empower them so we can make decisions together. I love what I do, and I can’t think of a greater honor than working with seniors,” he says. When Dr. Shah is not with patients, he keeps his knowledge sharp through conferences and research. He also likes to spend time with family, exercise, read, watch movies (especially Sci-Fi), visit the Rocky Mountains and travel back to England to see extended family.
