“My goal is to help them stay as healthy as possible and maximize their quality of life. To do that, I get to know each patient as a whole, and I provide education in addition to care.”

About David Cevallos, MD

A childhood fascination with physicians led Dr. David Cevallos to volunteer in the ER during high school — and he’s been passionate about patient care ever since. Dedicated to providing complete care to seniors, Dr. Cevallos specializes in both geriatrics and family medicine. “My goal is to help them stay as healthy as possible and maximize their quality of life,” he says. “To do that, I get to know each patient as a whole, and I provide education in addition to care.”

In his down time, Dr. Cevallos likes to stay up with medical research, play soccer and other sports, watch TV shows and movies, listen and dance to music, and spend time with family. With many of his family members living in Ecuador, it has been his favorite place to visit.
