“My personal mission is to empower patients, enabling them to engage meaningfully with their medical team, in order to make informed medical decisions and create effective health improvement plans.”

About Farrah Rajab, MD

Dr. Farrah Rajab strives to ensure each patient’s values are considered when creating treatment plans. She explains, “My personal mission is to empower patients, enabling them to engage meaningfully with their medical team, in order to make informed medical decisions and create effective health improvement plans.” She adds, “I have a passion for teaching, and I use those skills to explain complex medical concepts in simple terms to my patients.” She feels that “seniors are often overlooked, underestimated, and undervalued” in society, and she strives to make them feel seen and heard. She believes strong relationships are formed “with consistent respect, curiosity, and honesty.”

In her free time, Dr. Rajab enjoys going to the beach, bicycling, and cooking.
