

“My favorite part of being a cardiologist is the profound impact I can have in people's lives. It allows me to directly influence and improve the heart health of my patients.”

About Gerardo Zablah, MD

Dr. Gerardo Zablah explains that “the desire to assist others has been the driving force” in his medical pursuits. “My favorite part of being a cardiologist is the profound impact I can have in people’s lives. It allows me to directly influence and improve the heart health of my patients,” he says. He is passionate about building strong connections with patients and “providing compassionate and personalized care.” Prevention is key in his practice. “I am very approachable and willing to collaborate with patients and their families in their healthcare journey,” he says.

In his free time, Dr. Zablah enjoys exploring the Miami food scene, watching sports, and walking along the beach with his wife.
