About Maher Balkis, MD

Dr. Maher Balkis strives to make a positive impact in his patients’ lives. “I show up every day with the mentality that I want to help my patients and offer compassion, love, and best standards of medical care that they deserve,” he says. He adds that he is “always available” for patients and “wants them to be healthy and happy for many more years to come.” If he could change anything about the current medical system, he would increase access to care, especially for the senior population. “They’re the most vulnerable population that deserves the best care,” he explains.

In his free time, Dr. Balkis enjoys lifting weights, walking, and engaging in HITT exercises. He also likes traveling and collecting antiques.
