“I will be here for them, to help them, treat them, and guide them to have better days.”

About Ana Hernandez Ferret, MSN-FNP, ARPN

Ana Hernandez Ferret was inspired to pursue a career in healthcare at a young age, explaining that watching her cousins study from huge medical books piqued her interest. She loves caring for those who are sick or in need, especially the elderly. “I noticed them fragile and with few resources to survive,” she explains. She strives to actively involve patients in their care “by providing them with updated scientific information and resources for managing their health.” She adds, “I will be here for them, to help them, treat them, and guide them to have better days.”

Reading is Ana Hernandez’s favorite way to spend her free time. She also enjoys learning about history and likes watching documentaries.
