

“I want them to have the optimal health that exists for us all.”

About Trucha Sanon, ARPN

Trucha “Trisha” Sanon’s decision to pursue a career in healthcare stemmed from her desire to help others avoid preventable, debilitating diseases. She particularly enjoys caring for the senior population, explaining, “I want them to have the optimal health that exists for us all.” She strives to empower patients and fosters positivity during provider-patient interactions “by smiling, using motivational interviewing questions, and praising the good things they are able to accomplish.” She actively stays abreast on new medical advancements and enjoys sharing medical knowledge with her patients.

Trisha Sanon loves spending her free time with her husband and kids. They especially love watching Disney movies and trying new activities.
