“Trust is built through consistency, honesty, and showing patients that I genuinely care about their well-being.”

About Maikel Martinez Reyes, MSN, FNP-C

Maikel Martinez Reyes first decided to pursue a career in medicine to “help people maintain their health and independence.” He explains, “I enjoy addressing not only medical conditions but also the life experiences and goals that shape their health.” He strives to be accessible and always wants patients to “feel heard and respected.” He explains, “Trust is built through consistency, honesty, and showing patients that I genuinely care about their well-being.” He is committed to advocating for patients and always being present and approachable during interactions. “My goal is to partner with them in their care,” he says.

When not caring for patients, Martinez can be found staying active or spending quality time with family.
